

Book Reviews:

I, You and Us, creating a loving, lasting marriage.

by Shirley Goldsworthy. {Published by Acorn Press Ltd, Brunswick East Vic.3057}

'Love's work is hard work, and Shirley's book doesn't flinch from that. It is a valuable compendium of intensely practical advice, including well-proven strategies, for couples who are serious about nurturing their relationships. It is based on sound principles and is written from a compassionate point of view.'

Hugh Mackay

Psychologist, social researcher and novelist

'I, You and Us is a much-needed resource based around the words of the wedding service and offers practical wisdom for couples who want to make their wedding day, with its promises and prayers, the foundation of a worthwhile marriage. It will enable clergy to use the wedding service to prepare couples to live out in the years ahead what they vow to each other on one important day.'

Revd Canon Dr Colleen O'Reilly

Chair of Lifeworks, Vicar, St George's Anglican Church, Malvern, VIC

It was my privilege as Vicar to have Shirley responsible for marriage preparation and counselling for almost ten years at St John's Toorak, one of Australia's busiest churches for weddings. The quality and value of her work with couples, individually and in groups, was one of the main reasons for St. John's popularity. I am thrilled that her wisdom, insight and vision are now to be made available to a far wider audience, and I unreservedly commend this book to all who are married, preparing for marriage, or renewing their marriage vows.

Archdeacon Philip Newman, OAM

I have been privileged to watch Shirley develop this material over the last few years and have heard first-hand the positive comments from many wedding couples who have participated in Shirley's pre-marriage seminars. This book holds many practical tools that will provide a valuable resource for couples throughout their married lives.
